中考英语完形填空：丢失的校牌

完形填空原文

On Monday morning, Wang Tao reached for his school ID badge as he entered the school gate. But it was gone. He checked his pockets, his bag, and even his 1 — nothing. Without the badge, the guard would not let him in.

"I must have dropped it on the way here," Wang Tao thought 2. The badge had his name, photo, and class number on it. More importantly, losing school property meant he would have to pay for a new one, and his parents had just told him to be more 3 with his things.

Wang Tao was about to call his mom when a girl he didn't know walked up to him. She was from another class and looked a little 4. "Excuse me, are you Wang Tao from Class 5?" she asked, holding something behind her back.

"Yes, that's me," Wang Tao said.

The girl smiled and held out his badge. "I 5 this on the ground near the bus stop. I saw your name and class on it, so I came early today to find you."

Wang Tao was both surprised and 6. "Thank you so much! You really saved me!" he said. He noticed that the girl's shoes were muddy and her forehead was a little sweaty. She must have 7 to school to return it on time.

"It's no big deal," the girl said, waving her hand. "Anyone would do the same."

But Wang Tao knew that was not 8. Many people would have simply ignored a lost badge on the ground. This girl had gone out of her way to help a complete stranger.

During lunch break, Wang Tao bought two ice creams from the school shop. He found the girl sitting alone under a tree, 9 a book. "Here, this is for you," he said, handing her one. "A small thank-you for this morning."

The girl laughed. "You didn't have to do that." But she took the ice cream, and they sat together talking. By the end of lunch, Wang Tao had made a new 10. Sometimes, losing something small leads to finding something much bigger.
