中考英语完形填空：课桌下的纸条

完形填空原文

I was having a bad week. I had failed the math exam, argued with my best friend, and felt like nobody cared about me. Every morning I woke up 1 to go to school. I sat at my desk with my head down, not wanting to talk to anyone.

On Wednesday, I found a small note under my desk. It said: "You are braver than you think. Have a good day!" There was no name. I looked around, but nobody was looking at me. I put the note in my pencil case and 2 about it all morning. Who had written it? Why?

The next day, there was another note. "Your smile is beautiful. Share it with the world." Again, no name. I started to feel a little 3. Someone had noticed me. Someone cared.

I decided to find out who it was. I came to school early on Friday and hid behind the door. A few minutes later, I saw Lin Na — a quiet girl who sat in the back row — 4 something under my desk. She quickly returned to her seat before anyone else arrived.

I was surprised. Lin Na and I had barely spoken. We were in the same class for two years, but I had never really gotten to 5 her. She was always reading or drawing alone.

At break time, I walked over to her. "Thank you for the notes," I said. "They helped me a lot."

Her face turned red. "How did you... I didn't mean for you to find out. I just... you looked sad. I wanted to do something."

"That was very 6 of you," I said. "Can we be friends?"

She smiled. "I'd like that."

From that day on, Lin Na and I became good friends. I learned that she loved painting and had a pet cat. She learned that I enjoyed music. We started eating lunch together and 7 our secrets. I also began to write small notes for other students who looked down. I left them on desks or in lockers, without signing my name.

One day, our teacher asked us to write an essay about "A person who helped me." I wrote about Lin Na. When I read it aloud in class, she hugged me and said, "You helped me too. Before you talked to me, I felt 8. Now I have a friend."

A simple note can 9 a lot. It doesn't need to be long or perfect. Sometimes, a few kind words are enough to change someone's day — or even their life. I will never 10 what Lin

Na did for me in that difficult week.
