中考英语完形填空：快递员的笑脸

完形填空原文

During the pandemic, I stayed at home for months. Online classes made me feel bored and disconnected from the world. The only person I saw every day was the delivery man — a middle-aged man who brought our food and packages.

At first, I didn't pay much 1 to him. I would open the door, take the package, and close the door quickly. One day, my mother wasn't home, and I had to sign for a parcel. The delivery man smiled and said, "Stay safe, young man. Things will get 2."

His simple words stayed with me. After that, I started noticing him more. He always wore a mask, but I could see the kindness in his eyes. Even on rainy days, he never seemed 3. He would wave at me through the window if he saw me studying.

I decided to do something for him. I made a thank-you card and left a bottle of water by the door. The next time he came, he was surprised. "For me?" he asked. I nodded. His face lit up. "Thank you," he said. "This 4 my day."

That small exchange changed something. I began to appreciate the people who worked behind the scenes — delivery workers, cleaners, supermarket staff. They kept our lives 5 when everything felt uncertain. Their work might seem ordinary, but it was essential.

I started writing thank-you notes to other workers too. The security guard at our building. The bus driver who waited when he saw me running. Simple 6 of gratitude can mean a lot to someone having a hard day.

My grandmother always said, "Kindness is a language that everyone understands." I never really understood that until I 7 it myself. A smile, a thank-you, or a bottle of water — these small acts create connections. They remind us that we're not alone.

Now, whenever I receive a delivery, I make sure to say thank you and smile back. The delivery man and I have become 8. He sometimes asks about my studies. I ask about his family. We're not just stranger and customer anymore — we're two people who chose to see the 9 in each other.

In difficult times, the people who keep showing up deserve our respect and 10.
