05-19 第1篇

中考英语完形填空：毕业墙上的签名

完形填空原文

On the last day of junior high school, our class had a special activity. We were asked to write our 1 and wishes on a large white wall in the hallway. It was our "graduation wall." Everyone would leave a 2 before we said goodbye.

I held a marker and stood in front of the wall. What should I write? I thought about the three years we had spent together—the laughter, the tears, the 3 we had shared. Finally, I wrote: "Thank you, Class 3. You made my teenage years the best." I signed my name and stepped back to 4 my work.

When I looked around, I saw my classmates writing their own messages. Some wrote funny jokes. Some wrote heartfelt 5. One girl wrote, "I will never forget our basketball games." A boy wrote, "Stay in touch, everyone!" The wall slowly became a colorful 6 of our memories.

Our homeroom teacher came and took a photo of us in front of the wall. "This wall will be here for years. Whenever you 7 our school, you can come back and see your words," she said. Her words made us feel that our friendship would 8 forever.

That afternoon, we said goodbye to each other. But the wall reminded us that we would always be connected. Every signature was a 9 that we had been part of something special. Graduation was not an end, but a new 10.
