中考英语完形填空：海边捡来的贝壳

完形填空原文

Last summer, my family went to the seaside for a vacation. I had never seen the sea before, so when I first 1_ the blue water and endless horizon, I was completely amazed.

Every morning, I would wake up early and walk along the beach. I loved to 2 for shells that the waves had washed onto the shore. Some were tiny and white, like little pieces of the moon. Others were larger, with beautiful patterns and 3. I would pick them up one by one and put them in my pocket.

One day, I met an old fisherman who was sitting by his boat. He watched me collecting shells and smiled. "Do you know that each shell has a 4?" he asked. "It was once home to a sea creature. When the creature grew, it left and the shell stayed behind." His words made me look at the shells 5. They were no longer just pretty objects—they were stories of life.

I brought my shell collection home and 6 them in a glass jar. I placed it on my desk where I could see it every day. Whenever I felt tired or stressed from studying, I would look at those shells and remember the 7 of the sea, the warm sand under my feet, and the old fisherman's wisdom.

That trip taught me to find beauty in small things. The sea gave us not only 8 and waves, but also tiny treasures that carried memories. Sometimes the most valuable things in life are not expensive—they are the 9 we collect along the journey. Those shells still remind me of a summer when I learned to 10 the simple joys of life.
