中考英语完形填空：阁楼里的老箱子

完形填空原文

Last summer, I spent my vacation at my grandparents' house. One rainy afternoon, I decided to explore the attic. Dust covered everything, but a wooden box in the corner 1 my attention.

I pulled the box into the light and opened it carefully. Inside were yellowed letters, old photographs, and a worn diary. The diary belonged to my grandmother when she was a young girl. She had written about her 2 of becoming a teacher.

"I never knew Grandma wanted to be a teacher," I said to myself. She had worked at a factory all her life. I 3 the diary and went downstairs.

"Grandma," I asked, "why didn't you become a teacher?"

She was surprised at first. Then she smiled and said, "My family was poor. I had to leave school and 4 money for my younger brothers. But I never stopped learning. I read books every night after work."

She took my hand. "You know what? You are living my dream. Study hard and 5 your goals. That would make me the happiest grandmother in the world."

That conversation changed how I thought about school. Before, I often complained about homework. Now I understand that education is a 6. Not everyone gets the chance to chase their dreams.

I went back to the attic and put everything in the box. But I kept one photo — Grandma as a teenager, holding a book, her eyes full of 7. I framed it and put it on my desk. Whenever I feel tired, I look at it and remember her words.

Sometimes the best 8 we receive come from the past. That old box in the attic taught me more than any textbook could. It taught me to be 9 for what I have and to never give up on my dreams, just like Grandma never gave up on hers — she simply found another way to make them come 10.
