中考英语完形填空：毕业典礼上的花束

完形填空原文

It was our graduation day. The sun was shining brightly, and the school hall was filled with students in uniforms. We sat 1 with our families, waiting for the ceremony to begin. My heart was beating fast—I couldn't believe that three years had passed so quickly.

When my name was called, I walked onto the stage to receive my diploma. Suddenly, I saw my mother in the crowd. She was holding a 2 of flowers and waving at me. Her eyes were 3, but she was smiling. At that moment, I felt my own eyes become wet. I remembered all the times she had gotten up early to make breakfast, the nights she had sat beside me when I was 4, and the words of encouragement she had given me when I wanted to give up.

After the ceremony, I ran to my mother and hugged her tightly. "Thank you, Mom. I couldn't have done it without you," I said. She put the flowers in my hands and said, "I'm so 5 of you. These flowers are for your new beginning."

The bouquet had sunflowers, which always 6 toward the light. My mother said she chose them because she hoped I would always look for the bright side in life. I nodded and promised myself that I would 7 her words in my heart forever.

That afternoon, we took many photos together. My mother's smile in those photos is something I will always 8. The graduation bouquet didn't last long, but the love and memories it 9 will stay with me for the rest of my life. It was not just a gift of flowers—it was a gift of love and hope for the 10.
