中考英语完形填空：食堂的筷子筒

完形填空原文

At our school canteen, there is a large bamboo container full of chopsticks. Every day, hundreds of students 1 a pair before they get their meals. No one owns these chopsticks — they are shared by everyone. When I first came to this school, I found it strange. "Why don't students bring their own?" I asked my friend. She smiled and said, "It's our tradition. We 2 what we use."

The chopstick container stands near the entrance. Sometimes it is almost empty, and the canteen workers will 3 it with clean ones. I have watched many students take chopsticks carefully, trying not to 4 the others. This small act shows respect for the people who will use them next.

One rainy noon, I saw a new student standing by the container, looking confused. An older student walked over and 5 her how to pick a pair and where to put them back after the meal. "Don't worry," she said kindly. "You'll get used to it soon." That moment made me realize that the chopstick container was more than a 6 — it was a place where students helped each other.

Now I understand. The shared chopsticks teach us about 7. We take what we need and return what we use. We think about the next person. In a way, it is like our school life: we 8 things with our classmates every day — ideas, help, and even smiles. The bamboo container may look simple, but it holds a lesson that stays with us long after we 9 middle school.

Every time I take a pair of chopsticks from that container, I remember: we are all part of something bigger. A small 10 can connect us all.
