中考英语完形填空：读书分享

完形填空原文

Every Friday afternoon, our class holds a "Book Sharing" activity. Each student takes turns to introduce a book they have read. Last week, it was my 1. I had chosen a book about a boy who discovered a magical garden. I was a bit 2 at first because I had never spoken in front of the whole class before. But when I started talking about the story, I forgot my nervousness. I described how the boy found the garden and made friends with the animals there. My classmates listened 3 and asked me many questions. It felt great to share something I loved with others.

The activity has changed the way I 4 reading. Before, I used to read quickly and seldom thought about the stories deeply. Now I pay more attention to the characters and their feelings. When I know I will share a book, I read it more 5. I take notes and prepare what I want to say. This habit has made my reading experience much richer.

What I enjoy most is hearing other students' 6. Everyone has different tastes. Some like adventure stories; others prefer science books or biographies. Through their sharing, I have discovered many good books that I might never have picked up by myself. Our teacher says that sharing books is like 7 a window to different worlds. I agree. Every book opens a new 8 of imagination and knowledge.

I hope our "Book Sharing" activity will 9 for a long time. It has brought our class closer together. We learn from each other and grow through the stories we share. Reading is no longer just a personal hobby — it has become a way for us to 10 and connect with one another.
