As the month comes to an end, I would like to share my thoughts. What impressed me most this month was taking part in the school speech contest. I was so nervous at first, but I practiced hard and finally won first prize. The moment I stood on the stage, I felt proud of myself.

From this experience, I learned a lot. I learned to express myself confidently in front of others. What's more, I understood that hard work truly pays off. These lessons will help me face challenges in the future.

For the next month, I have some plans. I hope to read more good books and improve my English. I will also stick to exercising every day to keep healthy. I believe that with determination, I can make greater progress. Looking back makes me grateful; looking forward fills me with hope.
