中考英语完形填空：迟到的道歉

完形填空原文

Hu Tao and Guo Rui sat next to each other in class. They were not close friends, but they always got along well. One Monday, Hu Tao brought a new watch to school. It was a birthday gift from his father, and he was very 1 of it.

During lunch break, Hu Tao left his watch on the desk and went to play basketball. When he came back, the watch was 2. He looked everywhere but couldn't find it. Then he noticed that Guo Rui was the only one who had 3 in the classroom during the break.

Without thinking carefully, Hu Tao pointed at Guo Rui and said loudly, "You 4 my watch!" Guo Rui's face turned white. "I didn't take it! I was just reading!" he said. But Hu Tao didn't 5 him. He told the whole class that Guo Rui was a thief. Guo Rui lowered his head and said nothing more.

The next day, the cleaning lady found the watch under a bookshelf. It had simply 6 off the desk. Hu Tao stood there holding the watch, feeling a wave of 7 wash over him. He had wrongly blamed an innocent person.

He wanted to apologize, but he felt too embarrassed to 8 Guo Rui. Days passed. Guo Rui stopped talking to him and moved to a different seat. The 9 between them grew wider and wider.

Finally, after a whole week, Hu Tao wrote a long letter of apology and placed it on Guo Rui's desk. In the letter, he wrote: "I was wrong. I'm deeply sorry. I hope you can forgive me." When Guo Rui read the letter, his eyes became red. He looked up at Hu Tao and nodded slowly.

Hu Tao learned a painful 10: never judge others without evidence, and never let pride stop you from saying sorry.
