中考英语完形填空：比赛之外

完形填空原文

Jiang Tao and Wu Peng were both excellent students, but they were also fierce rivals. They 1 with each other in every test and every competition. Whenever one scored higher, the other would study even harder. Their classmates often joked that they were like two trains racing on the same 2.

When the city English speech contest was announced, both of them signed up immediately. They spent weeks preparing, each 3 to win. They barely spoke to each other during that time. The atmosphere between them became tense and uncomfortable.

On the day of the contest, Jiang Tao performed brilliantly. His pronunciation was clear and his speech was 4. He felt confident that he would win. Then it was Wu Peng's turn. Wu Peng walked to the stage, but suddenly his face turned pale. His hands were trembling and his mind went 5. He stood there in silence for what felt like forever.

The audience started whispering. Jiang Tao watched from his seat. Part of him felt 6 — if Wu Peng failed, the prize would be his for sure. But another part of him felt something 7. He knew how hard Wu Peng had worked. Losing like this would be heartbreaking.

Without thinking, Jiang Tao stood up and began clapping loudly. "Come on, Wu Peng! You can do it!" he shouted. The audience joined in with 8. Wu Peng looked at Jiang Tao, took a deep breath, and started his speech. His voice was shaky at first, but it grew 9 and stronger. He finished with a powerful ending that earned loud applause.

In the end, Wu Peng won first place, and Jiang Tao came second. But when reporters asked Jiang Tao if he was disappointed, he shook his head. "Winning is great, but some things are more important than a 10. Today I gained something better — a true friend."
