中考英语完形填空：默默付出的值日生

完形填空原文

In Class 5, there was a girl named Zhou Ning who was often 1. She wasn't good at sports, didn't like to answer questions in class, and her grades were average. Most students barely noticed her. But there was one thing she did every single day without fail — she was always the last one to 2 the classroom.

Zhou Ning was the class duty student on Mondays. But the truth was, she cleaned the classroom almost every day. She would wipe the blackboard, 3 the desks, sweep the floor, and empty the trash cans — even when it wasn't her turn. Nobody asked her to do it, and she never 4 about it.

One winter morning, the classroom heater broke down. Everyone came in shivering and complaining about the 5. But when they looked around, they noticed something surprising: the windows were freshly wiped, the floor was spotless, and a pot of hot water was sitting on the teacher's desk with paper cups beside it. Zhou Ning was sitting 6 in her seat, reading a book as if nothing had happened.

"Did you do all this?" asked Wang Jun, the class monitor. Zhou Ning just nodded without 7 up. Wang Jun felt a wave of shame. He suddenly realized how much she had been doing for the class while everyone else took it for 8.

That afternoon, Wang Jun stood up during the class meeting. He told everyone what Zhou Ning had been doing. The room went 9 for a moment. Then, one by one, students began to clap. Zhou Ning's face turned red, but she smiled — a small, shy smile. From that day on, more students started helping with cleaning. Zhou Ning was no longer 10 — she became the quiet hero everyone respected.
