中考英语完形填空：新年第一天的愿望清单

完形填空原文

January 1st is always a special day for me. Every year on this day, my family sits together and writes a wish list for the 1 year. This tradition started when I was only five years old.

This morning, Mom prepared a big breakfast for us. While we were eating, Dad gave each of us a blank card and a 2. He said, "Write down three things you want to achieve this year." My little sister looked confused because she was too 3 to write, so Mom helped her.

I thought for a long time before writing. Last year, I wrote that I wanted to learn to play the guitar, but I 4 gave up after two months. This year, I decided to be more realistic. My first wish was to read at least twenty books. Reading has always been my favorite hobby, and I wanted to 5 myself to read more.

My second wish was to be 6 to my classmates. Sometimes I get angry easily and say things I don't mean. I know that kind words can make a big difference in someone's day. My third wish was to help Mom with housework more often, because she always looks 7 after a long day at work.

After everyone finished writing, we put our cards into a glass jar and 8 it on the bookshelf. Dad said we would open it on December 31st to see how many wishes had come 9. I felt excited and also a little nervous.

I believe that writing down your goals is the first step to 10 them. A new year means a new beginning, and I am ready for it.
