中考英语完形填空：社区志愿者打扫公园

完形填空原文

Last Sunday, our community organized a volunteer activity to clean up the nearby park. My mom signed both of us up. I was not very 1 at first because I wanted to sleep in, but Mom said it would be a meaningful experience.

When we arrived at the park at eight in the morning, about thirty volunteers were already there. The organizer gave each of us a pair of gloves and a large plastic 2. He divided us into small groups and assigned different areas. My group was responsible for the area around the lake.

I was shocked to see how much 3 there was. There were empty bottles, food wrappers, and even old shoes lying on the grass. It was hard to believe that people could be so careless about the 4. We picked up trash piece by piece and put it into the bags.

After two hours of hard work, the park looked completely 5. The grass was green and clean, and the lake reflected the blue sky like a mirror. I felt a great sense of achievement. Mom smiled and said, "See? A small 6 can make a big difference."

During the break, I talked with an elderly volunteer named Mr. Chen. He told me that he came to clean the park every 7. "I've been doing this for ten years," he said proudly. "This park is like my second home." His 8 deeply moved me.

On the way back, I thought about what I could do to help protect the environment. I decided to carry a small bag with me and pick up any litter I saw on the 9. It might seem like a tiny thing, but if everyone does it, our city will become much 10.
