中考英语完形填空：第一次滑冰

完形填空原文

Last Saturday, my cousin invited me to try ice skating for the first time. I felt 1 as I put on the heavy skates. The ice looked smooth and shiny, but I worried I would fall and look silly in front of so many people.

My cousin smiled and said, "Just 2 the rail at the side of the rink." I held it tightly and tried to 3 one foot after the other. My legs felt 4, as if they were made of wood. Every small move took all my attention.

Ten minutes later, I was still moving like a robot. Then a little girl passed 5 me and waved happily. I took a deep breath and 6 go of the rail. I moved three steps and fell — 7! To my surprise, I laughed instead of crying.

My cousin skated over and helped me 8. She said mistakes are part of learning. Slowly, I got the 9 of it. Before we left the rink, I could skate a short way 10 holding the rail. That afternoon, I learned that courage is not about being perfect.
