05-22 第2篇

阅读理解（记叙文）

① Lin Na was a shy girl. She always sat at the back of the classroom and rarely raised her hand to answer questions. When the teacher called her name, her face would turn red and her voice would become very soft. She had few friends because she was too afraid to start a conversation. "I wish I could be more like those confident students," she often thought.

② One day, the school announced that there would be a drama show at the end of the term. Each class needed to prepare a short play. Lin Na's English teacher, Ms. Chen, encouraged every student to take part. "Even a small role can help you grow," she said. Lin Na wanted to join but felt too nervous. She did not think she could stand on stage in front of so many people.

⑤ After the drama show, Lin Na began to change. She raised her hand more often in class. She made new friends and even joined the school's speaking club. When asked what helped her the most, she said, "That small role on stage taught me that I could do more than I believed. Sometimes you just need to take the first step."
