Strange Festivals Around the World

① People all over the world celebrate different festivals. Some festivals are famous, like Christmas and the Spring Festival. But have you ever heard of festivals where people throw tomatoes at each other, or run with bulls in the street? Let's take a look at some of the strangest festivals from around the world.

② In Spain, there is a festival called La Tomatina (西红柿节). It takes place in a small town called Buñol on the last Wednesday of August every year. During this festival, thousands of people gather in the streets and throw tomatoes at each other for about one hour. By the end, the whole town is covered in red tomato juice. Nobody really knows why it started, but it has become one of the most popular festivals in Spain.

④ In Thailand, people celebrate the Monkey Buffet Festival (猴子 buffet 节) every year. On this day, local people prepare a large feast with fruits and vegetables for over 2,000 monkeys that live nearby. The monkeys are considered sacred (神圣的) in the local culture, so people treat them with great respect. This unusual festival has attracted many visitors and photographers from different countries.

⑤ These strange festivals show us that culture can be fun and surprising. Each festival has its own story and meaning, and they help people understand different ways of life around the world. Would you like to visit one of these festivals one day?
