07-25 第2篇

阅读理解（记叙文）

① On a cold winter morning, heavy snow fell and covered the whole neighborhood. Zhang Wei, a middle school student, woke up early and looked out of the window. The ground was white and thick with snow. His parents had already gone to work, so he had some free time. He thought about his neighbor, Grandma Liu, who lived alone. Her driveway (车道) would be difficult to walk on with all that snow.

② Zhang Wei put on his warm jacket and gloves, took a shovel (铲子) from the garage, and walked to Grandma Liu's house. When he knocked on the door, Grandma Liu was surprised to see him. "Young man, what are you doing here in such bad weather?" she asked. Zhang Wei smiled and said, "I've come to shovel the snow for you. The path is too slippery (滑的) for you to walk safely."

④ When Zhang Wei finished, Grandma Liu invited him in for a warm cup of tea. She thanked him again and again. "You are such a good boy," she said. "Your parents must be very proud of you." Zhang Wei felt happy and a little shy. He said, "My parents always teach me to help others when I can. I'm glad I could help."

⑤ That afternoon, when Zhang Wei's mother came home, Grandma Liu called her to say how moved she was by Zhang Wei's help. Zhang Wei did not tell anyone what he had done — he simply felt that helping a neighbor was the right thing to do. A small act of kindness can warm many hearts on a cold winter day.
