07-27 第1篇

阅读理解（说明文）

① A sandstorm is a natural disaster that happens when strong winds blow large amounts of sand and dust into the air. The sky turns yellow or brown, and it becomes difficult to see clearly. Sandstorms often occur in dry areas where there is little rain and the ground has no grass or trees to hold the soil.

② Why do sandstorms happen? There are several main causes. First, dry weather and little rainfall make the land very dry. The soil becomes loose and easy to blow away. Second, too much farming and overgrazing (过度放牧) damage the grasslands. Without enough plants to protect the soil, the wind can easily carry it away. Third, cutting down too many trees also leads to this problem. Trees and their roots help keep the soil in place. When they are gone, the land becomes a desert.
