11-25 第二篇

The Art of Calligraphy: Writing with Beauty and Meaning

Calligraphy is the art of beautiful writing. For thousands of years, people in many cultures have used special tools—brushes, pens, or reeds—to create writing that is both readable and artistic. Calligraphy appears in religious texts, official documents, poems, and everyday items like invitations and signs. In China, calligraphy is considered one of the highest forms of art, closely linked to painting and poetry. [1] Calligraphy combines the practical need to write with the desire to create something beautiful, making it an art form that has been valued and practiced across cultures and centuries.

Learning calligraphy takes patience and practice. You must learn to hold the brush or pen correctly, control the pressure, and understand how each stroke connects to the next. In Chinese calligraphy, there are basic strokes that form the building blocks of characters. In Western calligraphy, different scripts such as italic or copperplate have their own rules. Beginners often start by copying famous works or following practice sheets. [2] Mastering calligraphy requires dedication and repeated practice, as each stroke and style has its own rules that must be learned and internalized over time.

Calligraphy is more than just pretty letters. It expresses the writer's mood, energy, and personality. A skilled calligrapher can make the same character look different each time—sometimes bold and forceful, sometimes gentle and flowing. In many traditions, calligraphy is also a form of meditation. The slow, focused movement of the hand can calm the mind and improve concentration. [3] Calligraphy connects the hand, the mind, and the heart, offering both artistic expression and a peaceful way to focus and reflect.

Today, calligraphy is still practiced around the world. Schools teach it as part of art or language classes. Hobbyists enjoy it as a relaxing pastime. Calligraphers are hired for weddings, certificates, and special events. Digital tools have also appeared—some apps help people learn strokes or create digital calligraphy. Yet the traditional practice with brush and ink remains valued for its tactile and meditative qualities. [4] Calligraphy continues to thrive in the modern world, both as a traditional art and as a skill that adapts to new tools and new uses, from classrooms to celebrations to digital screens.

Calligraphy reminds us that writing can be an art, not just a task. In an age of typing and quick messages, taking time to form each character by hand offers something special. [5] Preserving and practicing calligraphy helps us slow down, appreciate beauty in everyday things, and keep alive a connection to the cultures and traditions that have shaped human expression for thousands of years.

选项

A. Calligraphy combines the practical need to write with the desire to create something beautiful, making it an art form that has been valued and practiced across cultures and centuries. B. Mastering calligraphy requires dedication and repeated practice, as each stroke and style has its own rules that must be learned and internalized over time. C. Calligraphy connects the hand, the mind, and the heart, offering both artistic expression and a peaceful way to focus and reflect. D. Calligraphy continues to thrive in the modern world, both as a traditional art and as a skill that adapts to new tools and new uses, from classrooms to celebrations to digital screens. E. Preserving and practicing calligraphy helps us slow down, appreciate beauty in everyday things, and keep alive a connection to the cultures and traditions that have shaped human expression for thousands of years. F. For instance, the Japanese art of shodo uses brushes and ink to create characters that are admired for their balance and flow.

答案键（Answer Key）

[1] A [2] B [3] C [4] D [5] E

深度解析

- [1] A：
  - 线索：空前介绍书法——美化书写之艺，数千年来多文化用毛笔、钢笔或芦秆创作兼具可读性与艺术性的文字，见于宗教、公文、诗歌及请柬招牌等，在中国被视为最高艺术形式之一，空后需概括书法将实用书写与审美追求结合、跨越文化与 centuries 的价值。A的"combines the practical need to write with the desire to create something beautiful"与前文"both readable and artistic"呼应，"valued and practiced across cultures and centuries"与前文"thousands of years"和"many cultures"对应。
- [2] B：
  - 线索：空前说学习书法需耐心与练习——握笔姿势、力道控制、笔画衔接，中国书法有基本笔画构成汉字、西方有斜体或铜版体等规矩，初学者常临摹名作或用练习帖，空后需总结掌握书法需 dedication 与反复练习、逐步内化规则。B的"Mastering calligraphy requires dedication and repeated practice"与前文"takes patience and practice"呼应，"each stroke and style has its own rules that must be learned and internalized over time"与前文各项规则对应。
- [3] C：
  - 线索：空前说书法不止于好看——传达书写者情绪、力度与个性，同一字可写得刚劲或柔和，许多传统中将书法视为冥想形式，缓慢专注的运笔可 calm the mind、提升专注，空后需总结书法对手、心、脑的联结及艺术表达与冥想作用。C的"Calligraphy connects the hand, the mind, and the heart"与前文"mood, energy, and personality"和"meditation"呼应，"artistic expression and a peaceful way to focus and reflect"与"calm the mind and improve concentration"对应。

- [4] D：
  - 线索：空前说书法在今天——学校作为艺术或语言课、爱好者作为休闲、婚礼证书等活动请书法家、数字工具与 app 辅助学习或创作，传统笔墨仍因触感与冥思价值受重视，空后需总结书法在当代既作为传统艺术又适应新工具新用途的延续。D的"Calligraphy continues to thrive in the modern world"与前文"still practiced around the world"呼应，"both as a traditional art and as a skill that adapts to new tools"与"Digital tools"和"traditional practice with brush and ink remains valued"对应。
- [5] E：
  - 线索：空前说书法提醒我们书写可为艺术——在打字与快餐信息的时代，亲手写就每个字有其特别之处，空后需总结保存与练习书法对放缓节奏、欣赏日常之美、维系与千年文化传统联结的意义。E的"Preserving and practicing calligraphy helps us slow down"与前文"taking time to form each character by hand"呼应，"keep alive a connection to the cultures and traditions that have shaped human expression for thousands of years"与开篇历史与文化呼应，是合理收尾。
- 干扰项分析：
  - F. For instance, the Japanese art of shodo uses brushes and ink to create characters that are admired for their balance and flow.：以For instance开头，为日本书道 shodo 的具体案例。各空均为概括或过渡句；[1]易被误选因涉及书法传统，但该空需概括书法整体价值与跨文化实践，而非某一具体传统举例。