参考范文

Last month, something unpleasant happened between my best friend and me. I heard from a classmate that my friend had told others a secret I shared only with him. I felt hurt and angry, so I refused to talk to him for almost a week.

However, it turned out that the classmate had made it up. When I learned the truth, I felt deeply ashamed. I went to my friend, said sorry, and explained everything. He smiled and said, "I'm just glad you came to me."

This experience taught me a valuable lesson: never jump to conclusions without hearing both sides. True friendship can survive misunderstandings — as long as we choose trust and communication.

全文翻译

上个月，我和最好的朋友之间发生了一件不愉快的事。我从一个同学那里听说，朋友把我只跟他说过的秘密告诉了别人。我又伤心又生气，几乎一整周都不理他。

然而，事实是那个同学编造了这件事。当我得知真相后，深感羞愧。我走到朋友面前道歉，并解释了一切。他笑着说："你肯来找我，我就很高兴了。"

这次经历教会了我一个宝贵的道理：不要在只听一面之词时就草率下结论。真正的友谊能经受住误会——只要我们选择信任与沟通。
