中考英语完形填空：学做纸浆画

完形填空原文

Last weekend, I learned how to make paper pulp paintings at a community art center. It was a new experience for me, and I was 1 to try it.

The teacher first explained that we needed to tear old newspapers into small pieces and soak 2 in water overnight. The next day, we would mix the paper with glue to make a kind of pulp. I had never thought that waste paper could be 3 into something beautiful.

When I started my first painting, I chose to make a sunset over the sea. I mixed different colors into the pulp—red and orange for the sky, blue for the ocean. The most important thing was to apply the pulp 4 on the cardboard. If I put too much in one place, it would take a long time to dry.

I worked on my painting for about two hours. Sometimes the pulp didn't stick well and I had to 5 more glue. The teacher told me that would help it stick better. Finally, I finished my artwork. I had to wait for it to dry 6 I could take it home.

The next day, when I went to pick up my painting, I was surprised by how good it looked. The colors blended together 7, and the texture was interesting. My mom said it was creative and wanted to hang it in our living room. I felt very 8 of my work.

Making paper pulp paintings taught me that we can create something 9 from ordinary materials. I also learned that art doesn't always require expensive supplies—sometimes the best creations come from simple things. I plan to make more paper pulp paintings and maybe give 10 as gifts to my friends.
