中考英语完形填空：参加学校感恩节英语活动

完形填空原文

Last Thursday was Thanksgiving Day. Our school held an English activity to celebrate it. The English teachers had prepared many interesting programs. I signed up for the speech contest—we had to give a short speech in English about what we were 1 for. I spent two days writing and practicing my speech.

On the morning of the activity, the school hall was decorated with autumn colors. There were paper pumpkins, dried corn, and leaves on the walls. The atmosphere was warm and 2. The headmaster gave an opening speech. He said Thanksgiving was a time to express gratitude and to 3 the people who helped us. His words reminded me of my teachers, parents, and friends.

The speech contest started at 9 o'clock. I was the fifth speaker. When I waited for my turn, I felt my heart beating 4. But when I stood on the stage and looked at the audience, I took a deep breath and began. I talked about my gratitude to my parents for their love, to my teachers for their patience, and to my friends for their support. I spoke for about three minutes. The judges gave me a 5 and I felt relieved.

After the contest, we had a "Thank You Card" activity. Each student wrote thank-you cards to people they wanted to thank. I wrote one to my mom and one to my English teacher. I tried to express my feelings 6 and honestly. Then we exchanged cards with our classmates. Reading the cards from others made me feel 7 and valued.

The activity ended at noon. I learned that Thanksgiving is not just about a holiday—it is about having a grateful heart. We should remember to thank the people around us every day, not 8 on special occasions. I will try to say "thank you" more often from now on. This experience made me understand that gratitude can make our lives 9 and our relationships stronger. We will keep this wonderful memory in 10 hearts forever.
