中考英语完形填空：学做手工皮革钥匙扣

完形填空原文

My uncle is good at leather craft. Last weekend, he taught me how to make a leather keychain. I had always admired his handmade belts and bags, so I was eager to learn. He said we would start with something ___1___—a simple keychain.

First, we chose a piece of soft leather. Uncle said the leather should be neither too thick nor too thin. We drew a small shape on the leather—I chose a leaf. Then we cut it out carefully with a sharp knife. I had to be very 2 not to cut my fingers. The cutting took me a long time because I wanted every edge to be smooth.

Next, we punched a hole at the top for the key ring. We used a special tool to make the hole. Uncle showed me how to burn the edges with a small torch to prevent the leather from 3. The smell of burned leather was strong but not unpleasant. After that, we oiled the leather to make it softer and to protect it.

Finally, we attached a metal ring to the keychain. I held my first handmade keychain in my hand. It wasn't perfect, but it was 4 special because I had made it myself. Uncle said practice would make me better. I gave the keychain to my dad as a gift. He was very happy and said he would 5 it every day.

Making the keychain taught me that handmade things have more meaning than factory-made ones. I plan to make 6 and give them to friends and family. Each piece carries our love and care. My uncle said the skills would 7 useful in the future. I might even try making a small leather 8 next time. Handicrafts connect us with traditions and make our lives more 9. I will 10 this meaningful lesson forever.
