中考英语完形填空：学做桂花糕

完形填空原文

Osmanthus cake is a traditional Chinese dessert that smells wonderful. Last Sunday, my mother taught me how to make it. She said the best time to make osmanthus cake is in autumn when the flowers are in bloom. I was 1 to learn because I had always loved its sweet and fragrant taste.

First, we collected fresh osmanthus flowers. Mother said we had to wash them 2 and remove any stems or leaves. Then we mixed rice flour, sugar, and a little water to make a soft dough. We added the osmanthus flowers to the mixture. The kitchen soon smelled ___3___—like a sweet autumn garden.

Next, we poured the mixture into a steaming tray. Mother showed me how to smooth the surface with a spoon. We had to be 4 so that the cake would cook evenly. Then we put the tray into the steamer and waited for about twenty minutes. The waiting was the hardest part—I kept peeking to see if it was ready.

When the cake was done, we cut it into small squares. The cake was soft, sticky, and had a beautiful golden color with flower pieces inside. I took a bite and the osmanthus flavor filled my mouth. It was 5 than any store-bought cake. Mother said we could pack some and give them to our 6.

Making osmanthus cake taught me that traditional foods connect us with the seasons and our culture. I plan to make it 7 next autumn when the flowers bloom. This sweet memory will always stay in my heart. My grandmother used to make this cake when she was 8, and now I am learning to carry on the tradition. Every bite reminds me of family, love, and the 9 of simple homemade food. I hope to pass this 10 to the next generation one day.
