中考英语完形填空：学做红枣核桃糕

完形填空原文

Last weekend, I learned to make red date walnut cake from my grandmother. It's a traditional Chinese snack that has been 1 in our family for generations.

Grandma told me that the 2 step was to prepare the ingredients. We needed red dates, walnuts, glutinous rice flour, and some sugar. She showed me how to 3 the dates and remove the pits carefully. Though it took time, Grandma said that being 4 was the key to making delicious food.

After preparing the ingredients, we mixed them together. Grandma poured the flour into a big bowl and added hot water 5. "We need to knead the dough until it becomes smooth," she explained. I tried my best, but my hands soon felt 6. Grandma smiled and said, "Don't give up. Practice makes perfect."

Then we shaped the dough into small cakes and put walnut pieces on top. Grandma placed them in a steamer and we waited for about twenty 7. The sweet smell filled the kitchen, and I could not wait to taste our creation.

When the cakes were ready, we sat down and enjoyed them together. The taste was 8 — sweet, soft, and full of the love that Grandma had put into teaching me. I realized that learning to cook was not just about the food itself, but also about 9 skills and traditions from our elders.

From that day on, I have decided to learn 10 traditional recipes from Grandma. I want to keep our family's food culture alive.
