05-15 第一篇

Time Management: Making the Most of Each Day

Many students feel that there are never enough hours in a day. Between school, homework, hobbies, and rest, it is easy to feel rushed and stressed. [1] In fact, the problem is often not a lack of time but how we use it. Some people spend hours on their phones without realizing it. Others put off important tasks until the last minute. That is why learning to manage time well can help us do more, feel less stressed, and have time for what truly matters.

Setting clear goals is the first step. [2] Decide what is most important to you—finishing homework, practising a sport, or spending time with family. Then, list your tasks and put the most urgent or important ones first. A simple to-do list or a weekly plan can help you see what needs to be done and when. Without a plan, we often waste time wondering what to do next. In other words, knowing your priorities helps you use time wisely instead of letting it slip away.

Avoiding distractions is another key skill. [3] Phones, social media, and TV can steal hours from our day if we are not careful. Try putting your phone in another room when you study, or set a timer for short breaks. Some people use the "Pomodoro" method: work for 25 minutes, then rest for 5 minutes. When you focus without interruptions, you get more done in less time. For this reason, controlling distractions can make a big difference in how much we achieve each day.

It is also important to leave time for rest. [4] Your brain and body need breaks to work well. Taking a short walk, listening to music, or simply closing your eyes for a few minutes can help you feel refreshed. Students who rest properly often do better in exams than those who study until midnight without sleep. So good time management is not just about working harder—it is about working smarter and resting enough.

[5] In short, time management is a skill that anyone can learn and improve. By setting goals, avoiding distractions, and balancing work with rest, we can make each day more productive and less stressful. Remember: time is precious, and how we use it shapes our future. Start small, stay consistent, and you will see the difference.

选项

A. That is because the real issue is how we use our time, not how much we have. B. In other words, planning ahead helps us focus on what matters most. C. That is why reducing distractions can greatly improve our productivity. D. It is true that rest is a necessary part of effective time management. E. In conclusion, good time management can change our daily life for the better. F. For example, some students prefer to study late at night when it is quiet.

答案键（Answer Key）

[1] A [2] B [3] C [4] D [5] E

深度解析

- [1] A：
  - 线索：指出时间不足的本质是使用方式问题。空前描述"Many students feel that there are never enough hours...Between school, homework, hobbies, and rest, it is easy to feel rushed and stressed"，空后说明"In fact, the problem is often not a lack of time but how we use it...Some people spend hours on their phones without realizing it...Others put off important tasks until the last minute...learning to manage time well can help us do more, feel less stressed"。A选项"That is because the real issue is how we use our time, not how much we have"（那是因为真正的问题在于我们如何使用时间，而非拥有多少时间）中"That is because"揭示问题本质，"how we use...not how much"与空后"not a lack of time but how we use it"精准对应，衔接顺畅。
- [2] B：
  - 线索：总领目标与计划对聚焦重点的作用。空前提出"Setting clear goals is the first step"，空后列举"Decide what is most important to you...list your tasks and put the most urgent or important ones first...simple to-do list or weekly plan can help you see what needs to be done...Without a plan, we often waste time wondering what to do next...knowing your priorities helps you use time wisely instead of letting it slip away"。B选项"In other words, planning ahead helps us focus on what matters most"（换言之，提前规划有助于我们聚焦最重要的事）中"In other words"概括空前"setting clear goals"，"planning ahead...focus on what matters most"与空后优先排序、待办清单及"priorities"完美呼应，衔接自然。
- [3] C：
  - 线索：减少干扰对提升效率的作用。空前提出"Avoiding distractions is another key skill"，空后详述"Phones, social media, and TV can steal hours...Try putting your phone in another room...set a timer for short breaks...Pomodoro method: work 25 minutes, rest 5...When you focus without interruptions, you get more done in less time...controlling distractions can make a big difference"。C选项"That is why reducing distractions can greatly improve our productivity"（因此减少干扰能大幅提升我们的效率）中"That is why"承接空前"avoiding distractions"，"reducing distractions...improve productivity"与空后手机管理、番茄工作法及"get more done in less time"精准对应，逻辑紧密。

- [4] D：
  - 线索：休息在时间管理中的必要性。空前提出"It is also important to leave time for rest"，空后说明"Your brain and body need breaks to work well...Taking a short walk, listening to music, or closing your eyes...can help you feel refreshed...Students who rest properly often do better in exams than those who study until midnight without sleep...good time management is not just about working harder—it is about working smarter and resting enough"。D选项"It is true that rest is a necessary part of effective time management"（的确，休息是有效时间管理不可或缺的一部分）中"It is true that"加强衔接，"rest...necessary part"与空后"brain and body need breaks"及"resting enough"完美呼应，衔接得当。
- [5] E：
  - 线索：全文收束与正向展望。空[5]位于结尾段段首，空后总结"time management is a skill that anyone can learn and improve...By setting goals, avoiding distractions, and balancing work with rest, we can make each day more productive and less stressful...time is precious, and how we use it shapes our future...Start small, stay consistent, and you will see the difference"。E选项"In conclusion, good time management can change our daily life for the better"（总之，良好的时间管理能让我们的日常生活变得更好）用"In conclusion"总结全文，"change our daily life for the better"与空后"more productive and less stressful"及"shapes our future"形成呼应，收束有力。
- 干扰项分析：
  - F. For example, some students prefer to study late at night when it is quiet.：涉及夜间学习偏好，易被误填[3]或[4]。但F讨论的是学习时段选择，而空[3]前后文强调减少手机、社交软件等干扰及专注方法，空[4]强调休息与睡眠的重要性；F中"study late at night"与空[4]反对熬夜学习的观点相悖，与空[3]的干扰控制也非同一层级。F属"主题相关但逻辑或立场不符"型干扰。