Most classmates didn't try to talk to him. Some even whispered behind his back, saying he was 2. Only one student, Zhong Yi, noticed that Da Wei always looked out of the window with sad eyes. Zhong Yi decided to 3 out to him.

One day at lunch, Zhong Yi sat down beside Da Wei and said, "Hi, I'm Zhong Yi. Would you like to eat together?" Da Wei looked 4 for a second, then nodded shyly. They started talking, and Zhong Yi 5 that Da Wei was actually very interesting. He knew a lot about animals and plants because he had grown up near a forest.

The next day, Zhong Yi 6 Da Wei to join their study group. At first, the other members were unsure. But when Da Wei helped them with a difficult biology question, they were truly 7. Gradually, Da Wei became more 9 and started joining class activities. He even gave a presentation about forest animals that made the whole class fascinated. His classmates finally realized that they had almost missed getting to know a wonderful person, simply because he was quiet and different.

Zhong Yi later told his teacher, "I'm glad I talked to Da Wei that day. I almost didn't, but I thought — what if nobody ever does?" His teacher nodded and replied, "Sometimes, all it takes is one person to make someone feel 10."
