中考英语完形填空：课间的纸飞机

完形填空原文

Li Ming was a quiet boy who rarely spoke in class. During break time, he always sat at his desk, watching others play. He wanted to join them but didn't know how to 1 a conversation.

One day, he saw a piece of paper on the floor. He picked it up and folded it into a paper plane without thinking. Then he gave it a gentle 2. The plane flew across the classroom and landed on Zhang Wei's desk.

Zhang Wei looked up. "Cool! Can you teach me?" he asked with a smile.

Li Ming was surprised. Nobody had ever asked him to teach anything before. He walked over 3 and showed Zhang Wei how to fold. "First, fold the paper in half. Then make the wings like this..."

More students gathered around. Soon, the whole class was making paper planes. Someone suggested a competition: whose plane could fly the 4?

The classroom became noisy with laughter. Paper planes flew everywhere. Li Ming's plane won the game. For the first time, he felt 5 of himself. "You're really good at this!" his classmates said.

From that day on, Li Ming was no longer alone at break. His classmates often asked him to 6 new folding skills. He even started a small paper plane club. The teacher supported the idea and gave them a corner of the classroom for their 7.

"Something as simple as a paper plane can break the ice," the teacher said. "Li Ming found his 8 and made friends. Sometimes we just need a small thing to connect us."

Li Ming learned that he didn't need to be loud or funny to make friends. He just needed to share what he was good at. A paper plane was 9, but it opened the door to friendship.

Now when Li Ming looks back at that day, he smiles. A piece of paper, a simple fold, and a little courage to throw — that was all it 10 to change his school life.
