中考英语完形填空：屋顶上的秘密花园

完形填空原文

We lived on the fifth floor of an old apartment building. There was no yard, no garden, and no place for anything green to 1. That changed the summer my mother decided to grow vegetables on the rooftop.

"Are you serious?" I asked when she carried bags of soil up the narrow stairs. She just smiled and said, "Watch and 2."

She filled old buckets and wooden boxes with soil, then planted tomato seeds, pepper seeds, and a few herbs. I thought she was 3 her time. Nothing could grow up there — it was too hot, too windy, and too dry.

But Mom watered the plants every morning before work. She checked them every evening after dinner. She talked to them as if they were her 4. "Come on, little ones," she would whisper. "You can do it."

To my surprise, green shoots began to 5 after two weeks. By the end of July, tiny tomatoes hung from the stems, and the pepper plants stood tall and proud. The rooftop, once grey and 6, was now full of life and color.

Mom started sharing vegetables with our neighbors. Mrs. Wang on the third floor got tomatoes. Mr. Li next door received fresh peppers. 7, other families began bringing their own pots to the rooftop. Someone planted sunflowers. Someone else added strawberries.

By September, our rooftop had become a real 8. Neighbors who had never spoken to each other were now chatting among the plants, sharing gardening tips and recipes. The building felt warmer, not because of the sun, but because of the 9 between people.

One evening, as Mom and I sat on the rooftop watching the sunset behind the tomato plants, I said, "Mom, I can't believe all of this started with a few bags of soil."

She looked at me and said, "The best things in life start 10. You just have to believe and keep going."
