中考英语完形填空：爸爸的背影

完形填空原文

Every morning, my father walks me to the bus stop. It's only a five-minute walk, but he has done it every single day since I started middle school. "I'm not a little kid anymore," I once 1, but he just smiled and said, "Humor me."

My father is a quiet man. He doesn't say much, and he rarely shows his 2. While other dads hug their children or say "I love you," mine simply nods and says, "Study hard." For a long time, I thought he didn't care.

One rainy Tuesday, I forgot my umbrella. By the time the bus arrived, I was completely 3. When I got home that evening, Dad was sitting at the table, looking guilty. "I'm sorry," he said. "I should have 4 you to bring it."

"It's fine, Dad," I said. "It's just rain."

But the next morning, I found a small umbrella in my school bag. There was a note stuck to it: "Just in case." The handwriting was shaky and 5, and I realized it had taken him a lot of effort to write those three words in English.

That small act made me 6 all the other things he had done quietly. Every night, he set his alarm for 5:30 a.m. to make me breakfast. Every Sunday, he 7 my shoes until they shone. When I was sick, he stayed up all night checking my temperature.

I began to watch him more 8 at the bus stop each morning. After I got on the bus, he didn't leave right away. He stood there, watching the bus drive away, his hands in his pockets, until it disappeared around the corner. Then he would 9 turn and walk home alone.

One morning, from the bus window, I saw his hair was greyer than I remembered. His shoulders were slightly bent. He looked older and 10. My eyes filled with tears.

That afternoon, when he met me at the bus stop, I did something I hadn't done in years. I gave him a hug. He stiffened for a moment, then slowly put his arms around me. Neither of us said a word. We didn't need to.
