中考英语完形填空：辩论赛的意外收获

完形填空原文

I never thought I would join a debate competition. I was always the quiet one in class, 1 to speak up. But when our teacher asked for volunteers, something pushed me to raise my hand.

Our team's topic was "Should students use smartphones at school?" I was assigned to argue for the 2 side. At first, I had no idea what to say. I spent hours in the library, 3 for information. To my surprise, I found many interesting facts and examples.

The competition day came. When I stood on the stage, my heart was beating fast. I looked at my teammates, and they nodded at me with 4. I took a deep breath and began to speak. My voice was shaky at first, but it grew 5 as I went on. I even made the audience laugh with a funny example.

When the results were announced, we didn't win first place. But the judge came to me and said, "You have great 6. Keep practicing, and you will go far." Those words meant more to me than any prize.

That experience taught me an important 7: we never know what we can do until we try. My fear of speaking had held me back for years. But once I stepped out of my 8 zone, I discovered a whole new world. Now I'm not afraid to 9 my opinions anymore. Sometimes, the greatest victory is not winning the competition, but 10 yourself.
