中考英语完形填空：校门口的早点摊

完形填空原文

Every morning before school, I pass by a small breakfast stall near our school gate. The owner is Uncle Li, a kind man who has been running this 1 for over ten years. His stall is simple but clean, and the smell of fresh steamed buns always makes me feel 2.

Last Tuesday, I forgot to bring my wallet. When I reached for the steamed bun I usually buy, I realized I had no money. I felt 3 and didn't know what to do. Uncle Li noticed my worried face and handed me the bun with a warm smile. "Take it. You can pay me tomorrow," he said. I was 4 by his trust. The next day, I went back and paid him. He just nodded and said, "Good kid."

Since that day, I have become a 5 customer. I often chat with Uncle Li while waiting for my breakfast. He told me that he started this business to support his family. Although the work is 6, he never complains. "Seeing you young people grow up healthy makes me happy," he said.

One rainy morning, I saw Uncle Li 7 an umbrella for a student who was waiting in the rain. His own clothes were getting wet, but he didn't seem to 8. That moment, I understood what real kindness means—it's not about big 9, but about the small things we do every day to help others.

I hope Uncle Li's stall will always stay there, bringing warmth and delicious food to students like me. His smile is one of the best 10 of my school life.
