中考英语完形填空：讲台上的粉笔盒

完形填空原文

On our teacher's desk there is a small wooden box full of chalk. It has been there for as long as I can remember. Every morning when our teacher walks into the classroom, she first 1 the box and gets a piece of chalk. To many students, it is just an ordinary object. But to me, it 2 something more.

I still remember the first day of Grade 7. I was nervous and sat alone in the back. Our Chinese teacher, Ms. Zhang, noticed me. She picked up a piece of chalk and wrote my name on the blackboard. "Welcome to our class!" she said with a smile. That simple 3 made me feel I belonged here. The chalk box seemed to hold not only chalk, but also warmth and care.

Since then, I have watched our teachers use that chalk to teach us math, English, and science. They write down important points, draw pictures to explain difficult ideas, and sometimes leave 4 messages for us. The chalk becomes shorter and shorter, but our knowledge grows 5.

One day, our teacher told us that the school would 6 smart boards in every classroom. "Will we still need the chalk box?" a classmate asked. The teacher smiled and said, "Some things never change. The chalk box reminds us that learning happens step by step, just like each piece of chalk we use."

I will never forget that chalk box. It taught me that the 7 tools often help us learn the most. It is not about having the newest things, but about the 8 we put into our studies. I hope that wherever I go in the future, I will always 9 this lesson: keep learning with a simple heart, and every day can be a 10 one.
