中考英语完形填空：修自行车

完形填空原文

Yesterday morning, I found that my bicycle had a flat tyre. I was going to meet my friends at the park, so I had to fix it. I had never repaired a bike before, but my dad had shown me the 1 once. I decided to try it myself.

First, I turned the bike upside down and found the right tools in the garage. I needed a pump, a spanner, and a patch kit. Dad always said that having the correct 2 makes any job easier. I removed the wheel and took off the tyre. Finding the hole was the tricky part — I had to put the inner tube in water and watch for 3. Bubbles told me where the hole was.

I cleaned the area around the hole, put on the patch, and waited for it to dry. Then I put everything back together. When I 4 the tyre with the pump, I felt a bit nervous. Would it hold the air? I tested it — no more leaks! I was so 5 that I had done it by myself.

When I arrived at the park, my friends asked why I was late. I told them about the flat tyre and how I fixed it. "You're like a 6!" one of them said. I laughed and said anyone can learn if they are willing to try.

That experience taught me an important lesson — we should not 7 when we face problems. Sometimes the solution is simpler than we think. We just need to stay calm and take one step at a time. My dad says that learning to fix things helps us become more 8.

From now on, I want to learn more skills like this. Maybe I can help 9 when their bikes have problems too. It feels good to be useful and to solve problems with your own hands. That is the 10 of learning.
