中考英语完形填空：观看日出

完形填空原文

During the summer holiday, my father suggested that we get up early to watch the sunrise. I thought it would be boring at first, but I agreed to go with him. We planned to climb a small hill near our town.

We set off at four o'clock in the morning. It was still dark and the air was cool. The path up the hill was not easy to 1. My father held a flashlight and we walked slowly. I could hear birds starting to sing in the trees. "They wake up early too," my father said with a smile.

When we reached the top, the sky was beginning to get 2. At first there was just a little light in the east. Then, slowly, the light grew stronger. The clouds turned from grey to pink and then to orange. I had never seen anything so 3. I felt as if I were watching a beautiful painting come to life.

Suddenly, the sun appeared at the edge of the sky. It was a small red ball at first, and it rose higher and higher. Within a few minutes, the whole sky was bright. The sun was no longer red — it became golden and 4. I could not stop looking at it.

My father put his hand on my shoulder and said, "Every new day is a gift. We should be 5 for what we have." I nodded. Standing there on the hill, I felt peaceful and full of hope. The worries I had about school and exams seemed to 6 away.

We stayed for about half an hour before going back down. On our way home, my father told me that he used to watch the sunrise with his own father when he was young. "Some things never change," he said. "The sun still rises every morning, and it is still beautiful." I understood what he meant. Some simple 7 in life are the most precious.

That morning taught me to slow down and enjoy the beauty around me. We often rush through our days and forget to 8 the small things. A sunrise, a walk with family, or a moment of quiet — these are the things that make life meaningful.

I have watched the sunrise many times since then. Each time I 9 something new. But that first time with my father will always be special. It was the day I learned that the best things in life are often free — we just need to open our eyes and 10 them.
