中考英语完形填空：社区游泳池

完形填空原文

Last summer, a new swimming pool opened in our community. My friends and I were very 1 because we finally had a cool place to go during the hot days.

On the first day, we arrived early. The pool was bright and clean. A lifeguard stood by the water and explained the 2 to everyone: no running, no pushing, and no diving in the shallow end. I thought the rules were reasonable because they kept everyone safe.

I had learned to swim when I was eight, but I was not very good at it. I could only do the breaststroke slowly. My friend Li Wei, however, swam like a fish. He moved through the water so 3 that I felt a little jealous. I asked him to teach me, and he happily agreed.

Li Wei told me that the key to swimming faster was proper breathing. "You must breathe in through your mouth and breathe out through your 4 underwater," he said. I practised this many times. At first, I kept swallowing water and coughing. But Li Wei was very 5. He stayed beside me and corrected my movements again and again.

After about a week, I could feel the 6. My strokes became smoother and I did not get tired as quickly as before. I even tried the freestyle stroke, which was much harder but also more exciting. Li Wei said my progress was impressive.

The swimming pool also brought the community closer together. Every evening, families would gather there. Parents watched their children play while chatting with 7. Old people did gentle exercises in the warm pool. It became a place where everyone could relax and enjoy.

By the end of August, I could swim two full lengths without 8. I was proud of myself. More importantly, I learned that with the right guidance and enough practice, anyone can 9 a new skill.

I am thankful for the community pool. It gave me not only a healthy hobby but also a deeper 10 with my friends and neighbours. I cannot wait for next summer.
