中考英语完形填空：自制柠檬水摊

完形填空原文

During the summer holiday, my cousin Xiaoli and I came up with an idea: we would set up a lemonade stand in front of our house. We wanted to earn some pocket money and also have fun doing it 1.

We started by making a list of things we needed: lemons, sugar, water, ice, cups, and a small table. My aunt helped us buy the ingredients, but she made us 2 for them with our own savings. "If you want to run a business, you have to invest first," she said. I thought this was a good lesson.

The next morning, we got up early and squeezed thirty lemons. My hands hurt and the juice stung every tiny cut on my fingers. It was harder work than we had 3. But when we tasted the lemonade, we knew it was worth the effort — it was fresh, sweet, and perfectly cold.

We set up our stand at ten o'clock. Xiaoli made a big colourful sign that read "Fresh Lemonade — 3 yuan per cup." I arranged the cups neatly on the table and put a jar of 4 on the side. Then we waited.

The first hour was quiet. Only two people walked by, and neither of them stopped. I started to feel 5. Maybe nobody wanted lemonade. But then a group of children from the neighbourhood came over. They bought five cups and said it was delicious. Word spread quickly, and soon more people came.

By noon, we had sold twenty cups. Some customers even came back for a 6 cup. An old lady told us our lemonade reminded her of her childhood. A father bought cups for his whole family and left a generous tip. Each sale made us more confident and 7.

In the afternoon, the sun got very hot. More people wanted cold drinks, and our lemonade sold faster than ever. We ran out of ice twice and had to ask my aunt to buy more. By four o'clock, we had sold all fifty cups and earned over 150 yuan.

After paying back the cost of ingredients, we each had about sixty yuan of 8. It was not a huge amount, but we felt incredibly proud. We had earned it through our own hard work.

The lemonade stand taught me several things. First, starting something new always takes 9 — you have to try even when you are not sure it will work. Second, quality matters — people came back because our lemonade was genuinely good. Third, working with a partner makes everything more 10 and less stressful.
