中考英语完形填空：看电影写观后感

完形填空原文

Last weekend, our Chinese teacher asked us to watch a film and write a review. She said it would help us practise our writing and learn to express our opinions. I chose an animation film about a young girl who chased her dreams.

The film was shown at a small cinema near my home. I went there with my classmate Xiaohua. The cinema was not very 1, but the screen was big and the sound was clear. We bought some popcorn and found our seats. When the lights went down, I felt excited.

The story was touching. The girl faced many difficulties but never 2 her dream. She met a kind mentor who taught her to believe in herself. There were funny moments that made us laugh, and sad moments that made some audience members 3. I was deeply moved by the girl's courage and persistence.

When the film ended, I stayed in my seat for a while, thinking about what I had seen. The message of the film was clear: follow your heart and never give up. On our way home, Xiaohua and I 4 the characters and the plot. We had different favourite scenes, but we both agreed that it was a meaningful film.

That evening, I sat down to write my review. At first, I did not know where to 5. I had so many thoughts but could not organise them. So I wrote an outline first: the story, my favourite part, and what I had learned. This helped me structure my ideas.

I wrote about how the film had inspired me. In my daily life, I sometimes felt 6 when things became difficult. But the girl in the film showed me that challenges are part of growth. I also wrote about the importance of having people who support you. The mentor in the film played a key 7 in the girl's success.

The next day, I handed in my review. Our teacher read some of them aloud in class. When she read mine, I felt a bit shy but also 8. She said my review showed good thinking and clear expression. She encouraged us to watch more good films and write about them. "Films can open our minds and 9 us to see the world from different angles," she said.

I have started to watch films more carefully now. I pay attention to the story, the characters, and the music. After each film, I take a few notes. Writing reviews has become a 10 way for me to reflect on what I watch and to improve my writing skills at the same time.
