中考英语完形填空：学弹钢琴

完形填空原文

Last month, my parents bought me a keyboard as a birthday gift. I had always wanted to learn how to play the piano. When the big box arrived, I could not wait to 1 it and see my new instrument.

My mother found a piano teacher in our community. Her name was Mrs Chen, and she had been teaching for over twenty years. On my first lesson, she taught me how to sit correctly and place my fingers on the keys. "Relax your shoulders," she said. "Playing the piano should feel natural, not 2."

At first, I thought it would be easy. But when I tried to play a simple tune, my fingers would not move the 3 I wanted. The notes sounded wrong, and I felt frustrated. Mrs Chen smiled and said, "Everyone starts this way. You need to 4 every day. Even ten minutes of practice can make a difference."

So I practised every afternoon after school. I started with easy exercises — just pressing one key at a time. Slowly, I learned to play "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star." When I finally played it without 5, I was so proud that I called my grandmother to listen over the phone.

As weeks passed, I began to enjoy the 6 of practice. The piano was no longer a difficult task but a way to express my feelings. When I felt sad, I played slower pieces. When I was happy, I played faster ones.

Last weekend, Mrs Chen organised a small 7 for her students. I was nervous because I would play in front of others. But when I sat down at the piano and began to play, I forgot my nerves. The music carried me away. After I finished, everyone clapped. My parents had big 8 on their faces.

Learning the piano has taught me that nothing comes without effort. I used to give up easily when things were hard. Now I understand that 9 is the key to success. I will keep practising and hope to play more beautiful 10 in the future.
