中考英语完形填空：养小仓鼠

完形填空原文

For my fourteenth birthday, my parents gave me a hamster. I had been asking for a pet for a long time. They chose a hamster because it is small and easy to 1. I named her Cookie because of her golden brown colour.

At first, Cookie was shy and hid in her nest whenever I came near. I learned that hamsters are nocturnal — they sleep during the day and are 2 at night. So I started to play with her in the evening. I would put my hand slowly into the cage and wait for her to come out. After a week, she began to climb onto my hand. Her tiny paws tickled my palm. I felt so happy that she 3 me.

Taking care of Cookie taught me responsibility. I had to clean her cage every week and refill her water bottle every day. Her favourite food was sunflower seeds and fresh vegetables. I gave her a small piece of carrot or cucumber every other day. I also made sure she had enough 4 to run. Hamsters need exercise, so I bought her a running wheel. She would run on it for hours at night. The wheel sometimes made a little noise, but I got used to it.

One morning I noticed that Cookie had stored a lot of food in her cheeks. Her face looked very 5. I was worried and searched online. I learned that hamsters have special pouches in their cheeks to carry food. They often store food to eat later. It was completely normal! I felt relieved.

Cookie has been with me for six months now. She recognises my voice and comes to the cage door when I call her name. Sometimes I let her run around in a safe area in my room. I have to watch her carefully because she is 6 and can squeeze through small gaps. She has become an important part of our family. My little brother loves to watch her too.

Having a pet is a big 7. I cannot go on long trips without making arrangements for Cookie. But the joy she brings is worth it. When I feel stressed about homework, watching Cookie run on her wheel or nibble on a treat helps me relax. She has taught me about patience, care, and the simple 8 of having a little friend. I hope Cookie will stay healthy and 9 for a long time. Every pet owner should remember: our animals 10 on us for everything. We must treat them with love and responsibility.
