中考英语完形填空：班级值日

完形填空原文

In our school, every class takes turns to be on duty for a week. This week it was our class's turn. The teacher divided us into groups and gave each group a different 1. My group was responsible for keeping the playground clean.

On Monday morning, we arrived at school thirty minutes early. The playground was covered with fallen leaves and some rubbish. We grabbed brooms, dustpans and rubbish bags, and started working. It was a 2 job than I had expected. The playground was huge, and the wind kept blowing leaves around. Every time we swept one area clean, more leaves would fall.

"This is endless!" my classmate Xiao Ming complained. I understood his frustration, but I said, "Let's work 3 instead of complaining. If we each focus on one section, we'll finish faster." So we divided the playground into four parts, and each person took one. This strategy worked well, and we 4 the task in just forty minutes.

During the week, we also had to check whether other students were following school rules. We reminded students not to run in the hallways, not to 5 food in the classroom, and not to litter. Some students listened politely, but a few younger ones ignored us. I learned that it takes 6 to be a good leader — you must be firm but respectful.

The hardest part was Wednesday afternoon. It rained heavily, and the hallway floors became wet and 7. We placed warning signs and mopped the floors several times. A first-year student almost fell, but I caught her arm just in time. She thanked me, and I felt glad that we were there to 8.

By Friday, our duty week was over. The headmaster praised our class during the morning assembly. She said our playground had never been so clean. Hearing this, I felt that all our hard work had been 9. Even Xiao Ming, who had complained on the first day, smiled with pride.

Being on duty taught me that every small task matters. Keeping the school clean and safe is everyone's 10. When we all do our part, our school becomes a better place for everyone.
