中考英语完形填空：帮爷爷学用智能手机

完形填空原文

My grandfather got a new smartphone as a birthday gift, but he didn't know how to use it. He asked me to 1 him. I was happy to help because I wanted to spend more time with him.

We started with the basic functions. First, I taught him how to 2 the phone and answer calls. He practiced many times and gradually got familiar with it. Then we moved on to WeChat. I showed him how to send voice messages and make video calls. When he 3 saw his old friend on the screen, he was so excited that his hands were shaking.

Sometimes Grandfather would forget the steps and ask me the 4 questions again. I never got impatient. I would explain slowly and 5 him to try again. I also wrote down the steps in a notebook so he could check when I was not around.

One day, Grandfather successfully made a video call to my aunt by himself. He was so 6 that he called me immediately to share the good news. I felt warm inside — teaching him was not just about the phone, it was about 7 our bond.

Through this experience, I learned that elderly people need our patience and 8. They may learn slowly, but they never stop trying. I also realized that technology can 9 people together, no matter how far apart they live.

Now Grandfather sends me voice messages every day. I think the best gift we can give our grandparents is our 10 and time.
