About halfway up, we took a short break. Mom brought out some water and snacks. We sat on a big rock and looked down at the valley below. The view was 4. I could see our whole city in the distance, and the river looked like a silver ribbon winding through the hills.

After we reached the top, we spread a blanket on the grass and had our picnic. We had sandwiches, fruit, and some homemade cookies. Everything tasted 5 better in the fresh mountain air. Dad told jokes and we all laughed. It was one of the best days I had spent with my family.
