中考英语完形填空：学做蛋挞

完形填空原文

Egg tarts are one of my favorite desserts. I always buy them from the bakery near our school. But last weekend, my aunt came to visit and taught me how to make them at 1.

My aunt is a great baker. She brought all the ingredients with her: pre-made tart shells, eggs, milk, sugar, and vanilla extract. She said the tart shells were the hardest part to make from scratch, so using store-bought ones was a good 2 for beginners.

First, we made the egg custard filling. My aunt cracked three eggs into a bowl and told me to 3 them gently. She said we should not beat them too hard, or the filling would have bubbles and not be smooth. Then we added warm milk, sugar, and a few drops of vanilla extract. I stirred the mixture until the sugar was completely 4.

Next, my aunt showed me an important trick. She poured the mixture through a fine strainer into another bowl. "This step removes any egg bits and makes the filling extra 5," she explained. I was surprised by how much attention to detail baking required.

Then we placed the tart shells on a baking tray. I carefully poured the custard into each shell, filling them about three-quarters 6. My aunt said if we filled them too much, the custard would overflow in the oven.

We put the tray into the preheated oven and waited for twenty minutes. The kitchen smelled 7. When the timer rang, I looked through the oven door and saw the tarts had turned golden on top with some beautiful brown spots. They looked just like the ones from the 8.

After they cooled down a little, I took a bite. The shell was flaky and crispy, and the custard was silky and 9. It was even better than the ones I usually bought. My aunt laughed and said, "See? Homemade food always has extra love in it."

I was so happy that I could make egg tarts by myself. I plan to make them again for my family during the winter 10.
