Dear Tom,

I'm sorry to hear that you're feeling stressed about your studies. Don't worry — many students have the same feeling, and it's completely normal.

Here are some suggestions that may help you. First, try to make a study plan and follow it every day. A clear plan can help you manage your time well so that you won't feel too rushed. Second, take some time to relax. You can go for a walk, listen to music, or play sports after studying. Keeping a balance between study and rest is very important. Third, don't keep your worries to yourself. Talk to your parents, teachers, or friends — sharing your feelings can make you feel much better.

I believe you can get through this difficult time. You're a smart and hardworking boy. I'll always be there for you.

Looking forward to your reply!

Yours,
Li Hua
