① When you look up at the sky on a windy day, you might see colorful kites flying high. Kite flying is a popular activity around the world today, but do you know that kites were first invented in China over 2,000 years ago?

② According to historical records, the earliest kites were made of wood. They were not toys — they were used for military (军事的) purposes. Soldiers used kites to send messages and measure distances. Later, during the Tang Dynasty, people began to make kites out of paper and silk. These lighter materials made kites easier to fly, and kite flying gradually became a fun activity for ordinary people.

⑤ Today, kite flying is not just a tradition — it is also a healthy outdoor activity. Running with a kite is good exercise. Looking up at a kite in the sky can help relax your eyes and mind. Next time you have a free afternoon, why not go outside and fly a kite?

注释： military 军事的；measure 测量；string 线
