04-04 第2篇

阅读理解（议论文）

① Nowadays, many parents do everything for their children. They wash their children's clothes, clean their rooms, and even pack their schoolbags. They think doing chores (家务) will take up too much time and affect (影响) their children's studies. But I strongly disagree with this idea. I believe doing chores is very important for teenagers.

② Doing chores helps teenagers learn important life skills. Washing dishes, cooking simple meals, and cleaning the floor are all basic skills we need for living alone in the future. If a teenager doesn't know how to boil an egg or wash a pair of socks, how can he or she live independently (独立地) when going to college?

注释： chore 家务；affect 影响；independently 独立地；responsibility 责任感
