08-20 第1篇

阅读理解（说明文）

① Sleep is one of the most important things for our health, yet many teenagers do not get enough of it. Experts say that middle school students need 8 to 10 hours of sleep every night. However, studies show that many Chinese students sleep only 6 to 7 hours because of homework, mobile phones, and early school start times.

③ What happens when we do not get enough sleep? Lack of sleep can lead to many problems. Students may find it hard to concentrate (集中注意力) in class. They may feel moody, easily annoyed, or even sad. Over time, poor sleep can cause weight gain because the body produces more hormones that make us feel hungry. In serious cases, long-term sleep loss can weaken the heart and increase the risk of disease.

注释： hormone 激素；immune system 免疫系统；concentrate 集中注意力；internal clock 生物钟；fuel 燃料；energetic 精力充沛的
